Ways Committee Kills Three Bills To Bolster Budget

Measures for Education, Highway Departments Die in GOP-Controlled Committee

Legislature Recesses Until 5 P. M.; Leaders Show They Are Determined

Albany, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—The Assembly's Republican-controlled ways and means committee today blocked, temporarily at least, restoration of a part of a GOP $25,000,000 budget slash by killing three Democratic measures seeking restoration of state education and highway aid.

At the same time, the committee paved the way for prompt action on the majority's reduced appropriation for state departments, a program invalidated by the courts, by reporting out the measure for a vote along with 31 appropriation bills.

Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, Republican chairman of the ways and means committee, said the committee defeated by a straight party vote efforts of Assembly Democratic Leader Irwin Steingut to force consideration of his bills to restore $10,000,000 in state aid for education, $7,000,000 for highways, and salaries of official court referees.

Recess Taken
After a brief forenoon session, the legislature recessed for several hours with Republican majority leaders determined to pass their economy budget to bring final adjournment of a special session by 5 p. m.

Despite the blockade of a vote on the bills to restore cuts, Democrats maintained they will continue their battle by asking a floor vote to bring their bills from the Republican committee.

Another bill sponsored by Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, Republican chairman of the ways and means committee, to permit local slashing of teachers' pay, was jeopardized, leaders said, by the prospect the governor will refuse to give an "emergency message" needed to forestall a three-day delay on all bills.

"If the executive refuses to give such a message," one leader said, "we will not act on the measure rather than wait the necessary three days and come back to the capital again."

The revised budget bill, which reached legislators this morning, restores "line items" which the Court of Appeals ruled were illegally eliminated for "lump sum" appropriations when Republicans trimmed $7,000,000 off state department appropriations.

Among other measures waiting consideration were those to restore the education reduction, increase from $58,640,000 to $60,000,000 the appropriation to the social welfare department for home relief, reimbursements to municipalities, and 31 special appropriation bills passed by the regular session and requiring approval because they were enacted prior to final action on the budget.

Moffat's bill would "permit" teacher pay cuts—in the form of payless furloughs—ranging from one and one-half per cent for those earning $2,100 to five per cent for those earning $7,500 or more. Teachers getting less than $2,100 would be exempt.

Moffat said it was drafted "pursuant to Governor Lehman's recommendation that the legislature 'reconsider carefully' its pruning of education funds and was designed chiefly to meet a threat by the New York city board of education to abolish kindergartens and night schools.

The bill, which also permits suspension of teacher salary increments for one year, would prohibit the elimination of such services. Emphasizing that none of its provisions are mandatory, Moffat estimated it would make possible a $4,000,000 saving in New York city.

Threat of a new taxpayers' revolt against attempts to rescind any of the budget reductions came, meanwhile, from Alice W. Griffith, executive secretary of the Westchester County Taxpayers Association. She said 400 organizations would repeat, if necessary, "the great mass protest against reckless government spending" staged during the regular session.

Latest reports from Detroit indicated that police were inclined to believe that Dr. James Monroe Smith had fled to Canada with his wife (above) in a newly purchased car. Dr. Smith, former president of Louisiana State University, is sought by authorities for allegedly borrowing $500,000 from three banks as university funds and losing it in disastrous speculation.

Washington, June 30 (AP)—The Senate civil service committee approved today the nomination of Arthur F. Flemming, a professor at American University here, to be a member of the civil service commission.

Flemming, who was born in Kingston, N. Y., is 34 years old. Committee aides said if his nomination was confirmed by the Senate, he would be the youngest member of the commission since Theodore Roosevelt.

Cigarette Levy Begins Tonight

Albany, N. Y., June 30 (AP)—New York state levies at midnight a new tax to raise $22,500,000 in "cigarette money."

The "penny for ten" tax on cigarettes brought announcement of price schedules throughout the state ranging from "no increase" in some sections to three cents for a package of 20 cigarettes in New York city.

Outside the New York city area, vending machine operators said the price will remain 15 cents a package with the state's two-cent-a-package levy shared by operators and merchants.

In New York city, many retail tobacco dealers refused to absorb the new levy and announced the three-cent increase with 15-cent brands selling at 18 cents or two packages for 34 cents. The city already has a cent-a-package tax designed to raise $7,000,000 a year for relief.

Hollywood Police Grill Youth On Bludgeoning of Dancer

Hollywood, June 30 (AP)—Police, claiming a confession of matricide from Campbell McDonald, heavily-set, 25-year-old student, grilled him at length today regarding the bludgeoning to death five months ago of a pretty young Russian dancer.

McDonald, arrested at the Beach City of Santa Monica shortly before midnight, was quoted by Radio Policeman Charles Varco as admitting he beat his mother, Mrs. Margaret Campbell, 56, teacher and former silent screen actress, to death with a hammer last Sunday night.

President Signs Tax Bill Eliminating Profits Levy

Washington, June 30 (AP)—President Roosevelt has signed the business tax revision bill which does away with the undistributed profits levy.

The measure became law at 10 o'clock last night. It re-enacts excise taxes expiring June 30 and also revamping the corporate tax setup in response to a widespread demand for government to ease up on business.

For the graduated undivided profits tax, the legislation substitutes a flat 18 per cent levy on the income of corporations making more than $25,000.

It leaves the taxes on small corporations just as they are—from 12½ to 16 per cent—but gives all corporations, partnerships and individuals the right to carry over their business losses for two years. Present law permits no carryover.

A new formula is provided for figuring the tax on capital gains, permitting corporations to deduct in full from their taxable income capital losses on assets held more than 18 months. The deduction must be taken during the year in which the loss occurred.

Losses on assets held less than 18 months can be used to offset similar short term capital during the same year. An excess of losses over gains may be carried over for one year.

No Mutual System Reached by Banks On Interest Rate

Bankers of the city of Kingston have not come to a mutual agreement relative to the amount of interest which will be paid on time deposits in state and national banks after July 1. Two plans for payment of interest on time deposits have been announced today as having been adopted by three of the local banks while a fourth banking institution has made no statement as to future plans.

The State of New York National Bank and the Kingston Trust Co. have announced that it will continue to pay interest at the present rate of 2 per cent per year on all time deposits up to and including $3,000 and that 1½ per cent will be paid on the next $5,000. For sums in excess of the $8,000 the interest rate will be not to exceed 1½ per cent, leaving the amount to be paid on sums in excess of $8,000, an open amount but the interest will not be in excess of 1½ per cent. Up to $8,000 the depositor is pledged a specified interest rate.

Would Aid Depositors
Inquiry at the State of New York National Bank and the Kingston Trust Company brought forth the statement that the banking houses could pay this sum and that it is deemed advisable to continue the 2 per cent rate of interest on all sums up to $3,000 in order to encourage the smaller "thrift" accounts. "We want to aid those small depositors who want to accumulate a thrift account," said an official of the bank.

It was pointed out that the trend throughout the country had been for some time toward a reduction of interest paid on deposits and in accordance with that trend it was deemed wise to reduce the interest paid out on time deposits where the sum on deposit was of considerable amount. The two uptown banks fixed that amount at $3,000 and will not reduce the rate of interest on sums up to that amount, dropping the interest rate ½ per cent on balances in excess of that and up to $8,000. Beyond $8,000 the interest paid depends on earnings.

Driving in Consolation
Govin lost control of his car as he drove into the home-stretch at the end of a two-mile consolation prize race. He was last in a six-car race when his car struck a guard rail and went into a spin. Early last season Govin cracked up at Woodstock on the northeast curve when he skidded, rolled over and went down the embankment. At that time he was pinned under his car and his father was burned badly when he attempted to pull on the blistering exhaust pipe to release the racer.

Smashed by Other Car
According to the Associated Press Snyder was killed last night in a midget race at the Chokola, Ill., track near East St. Louis.

The 31-year-old speedster's small white car plowed into an outer guard fence and rolled onto the track where it was smashed by another car. He died almost instantly.

The accident occurred in full view of 4,000 spectators.

Paul Armbruster of St. Louis, driver of the other car figuring in the smashup, was severely burned.

Mrs. Blanche Winters, 26, Victim as She Touches Wire Under Floor; Girl Burned

Emergency Help

Central Hudson Aid Sent From Poughkeepsie; Coroner's Verdict

The effort of Blanche Winters, 26, of Modena, to recover clothes pins innocently hidden by her infant son, resulted in the young mother's death early yesterday afternoon when she came in contact with a wire under the flooring of her home.

Only an instant prior to the woman's fatal encounter with the wire her five-year-old daughter, Phyllis, barely escaped death in the same manner when she had touched the wire in an effort to help her mother and was severely shocked.

The two had made their way under the flooring of an addition to their home to retrieve the clothespins which had been dropped by three-year-old Alfred through holes cut in the floor for installation of plumbing.

Mother Near Girl
Phyllis, perhaps because she was more able to get under the flooring of the new section on the house, first went to the spot where they thought the clothes pins would be. Her mother was near her at the time, but was perhaps unaware that the child had been shocked by an electric wire.

A few seconds later, the mother, apparently reaching in for the clothes pins, came in contact with the wire, and from what the authorities were able to learn, she had apparently been in a position to allow grounding of the current, possible through a water pipe.

A voltage of 220 is maintained on the electric system of the area and the wire touched by Mrs. Winters was one conveying electric service into their home.

Coroner's Verdict
Coroner Howard B. Humiston, who investigated the accident, gave a verdict to the effect that the woman was accidentally killed by an electric shock by contact with an electric wire in her home. Space between the ground and the flooring of the new addition on the house was ample enough to allow for Mrs. Winters and her daughter to crawl underneath and the wiring ran under the flooring to the upper part of the building.

From what could be learned by the coroner, it appeared to first have been the daughter's attempt to get the clothes pins in her hand to assist the child and was perhaps at the same time trying to get near the place where the clothes pins had dropped.

Phyllis ran out to the road to summon help after she saw that something serious had happened to her mother and she summoned the aid of Edward Atchinson, a neighbor, who was the first to hear her frantic calls for help.

Emergency Truck Responds
Mr. Atchinson, in turn summoned others to the scene after learning what had happened and later the emergency truck of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. from Poughkeepsie was called, but the woman was beyond hope of revival when the truck arrived, and from what the coroner learned, death was apparently instantaneous.

In the meantime Dr. Robert Reid of New Paltz was called to give treatment to Phyllis, who had been badly burned in her contact with the wire.

Mrs. Winters is survived by her two children and husband, Herbert Winters, one sister, Mrs. Helen Lozier, of Poughkeepsie; two brothers, Albert Terwilliger of Ballville and Earl Terwilliger of Millbrook. She was born in Ardona and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Terwilliger. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the Modena Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Modena Rural Cemetery.

Halifax Speech, Said to Be Gravest Since Days of World War, Warns Britain Is Armed

(By The Associated Press)

Europe was a puzzling jumble today of rumor, alarm and solemn warnings by high official spokesmen. The usual tangible bases for fear were not apparent, but grave British and French declarations that "further aggression" would be met by force matched rumors that Germany was preparing for a new coup, perhaps against the free city of Danzig.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, in a speech described as "the gravest warning by a foreign minister to another power since the World War," bluntly advised Germany that "further aggression" would be met by "the whole of our strength in fulfillment of our pledges."

His talk followed a similar admonition by French Premier Daladier only last Tuesday.

In the face of all this official Germans simply shrugged their shoulders. "We are conscious of our strength and supremely calm," they said. Berlin newspapers, in giving meager space to the Halifax warning, omitted his statement that Britain would "meet force with force." They ridiculed reports of an imminent Nazi move.

Italians Uneasy

Premier Mussolini was reported to be keeping in close touch with the Führer by telephone. The press and official quarters here too displayed outward calm, decriing "alarmist" campaigns abroad, but increased uneasiness was apparent among Italians themselves.

Britons wondered whether Hitler would heed the Halifax declaration, in which England's preparedness was stressed.

France looked to her defenses as diplomatic quarters in Paris received reports that Germany had called up 600,000 reservists and that Italian military railway equipment was moving into Germany through the Brenner Pass.

Berlin said that "no abnormal number of reservists has been called up."

General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, head of all French defense forces, toured along the Italian frontier inspecting fortifications, and France opened up her enlistment rolls to foreigners in France wishing to fight during a war if war comes.

The Netherlands cabinet of Premier Hendrikus Colijn resigned in a controversy over borrowing funds for defense and unemployment.

Uncertainties over the relief appropriation caused him to announce a shut down of all WPA projects from July 1 to July 4. The 2,500,000 workers affected will be permitted to make up the time later in July.

Carmody is leaving the rural electrification administration for his new $12,000-a-year job. Among the half dozen units he is taking over is the Public Works Administration, to whose 2,581 employees Secretary Ickes, the present WPA chief, said goodbye yesterday.

President Labels Plan 'Filibuster,' Warns of Opinion

'He Would,' Says Austin, 'Anyone in His Position Would'; Promises Valid Treatment

Relief Approved

House Approves Compromise Bill of $1,755,000, 000 for Relief

Washington, June 30 (AP)—The Senate Republican leadership announced today that the administration's compromise monetary bill would be talked to death.

The announcement came from Senator Austin (R-Vt.) shortly after President Roosevelt had told his press conference that the country would not be sympathetic with a filibuster.

"Of course he would call it a filibuster," Austin said. "Anyone in his position would."

"But it will be legitimate debate. You will be able to tell that from the character of the debate." Mr. Roosevelt had remarked that the people would not be favorably inclined toward the filibuster if one developed.

His remark that the people of the country would readily understand any filibuster situation evidently was designed to focus attention on any effort to delay congressional action so that his emergency monetary powers would expire at midnight tonight.

Mild Comment
He added that he considered his filibuster remark a rather mild comment.

Asked next whether he had any reports on what had happened on the monetary legislation, he replied he had been informed Senate Republicans were holding a caucus to determine whether to filibuster a compromise measure which would extend his power to devalue the dollar and continue the stabilization fund and the administration's foreign and domestic silver-buying policies.

At the Capitol simultaneously, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters:

"We are going to encourage everyone to talk who wants to talk. I don't see any reason that the bill shouldn't be discussed just because the time is short before midnight."

Relief Bill Approved

Racing against the clock, the House approved a compromise appropriation bill which would make $1,755,000,000 available for relief during the year starting tomorrow and make numerous changes in the WPA.

Unless the Senate completes action on the measure in time for President Roosevelt to sign it before midnight—the end of the current fiscal year—stop-gap legislation would be necessary to prevent cessation of relief activities.

The compromise, agreed upon a Senate-House committee late last night, would abolish the WPA's federal theater projects, cut $33,000,000 off the total recommended by the Senate, but increase the House figure by $20,000,000.

Speaker Bankhead announced the standing vote for approval of the bill was 321 to 23.

House members of the committee recommended approval of Senate amendments eliminating a number of restrictive provisions written in by the House, including one striking out the proposal for a three-man board to administer the WPA instead of the present single administrator.

The House group accepted likewise the Senate's amendment turning back to the WPA the $125,000,000 which the House has transferred to the Public Works Administration and the amendment requiring local communities to contribute 25 per cent of the cost of all projects started after next January 1.

The compromise version of the bill was worked out by the committee last night but its decisions were not made public until today.

Balloons Glean Weather FactsCoast Guard Successful in Getting Reports From Stratosphere.

WASHINGTON. — The United States "weather frontier" has advanced 1,000 miles into the Atlantic as a result of a novel stratosphere reporting system inaugurated this spring by the coast guard in co-operation with the weather bureau.

With transatlantic commercial aviation imminent, a method of high altitude "observation" is under preliminary test, employing radio balloons, radio meteorographs and recording equipment. The coast guard cutters Chelan, Champlain, and General Green, are used in the experiment, and the collected data are sent to the United States weather bureau for analysis. Conclusions may afford basis for a permanent organization for stratosphere reporting.

Average Year for Icebergs.

There is usually one cutter in the vicinity of Bermuda, another near Nova Scotia and a third along the Grand Banks of Newfoundland. The normal activity of these vessels is the "ice patrol," aimed to protect shipping against the icebergs that drift into the North Atlantic. Since this patrol was inaugurated 25 years ago there has been no loss of life in the North Atlantic because of ship collision with ice. The forecast for this summer was for 490 icebergs in the North Atlantic, about an average number.

The cutters are furnished with balloons, each about 15 feet in diameter, each equipped with a radio transmitter. The released balloon sends signals at intervals of several seconds to a receiving device aboard ship, which records in diagrammatic form barometric pressure, temperature and humidity. Findings in vicinity of Nova Scotia or Newfoundland, Grand Banks and Bermuda are correlated for analysis, thus giving insight into the general pattern of northwestern Atlantic weather at high altitudes. The test period will extend to July 11.

The first radio balloon sent up this spring attained an altitude of 35,000 feet and reported a temperature there of 60 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. The balloons have a theoretical elevation capacity of 80,000 feet and in overland tests have already reached 57,000 feet.

To Aid Island Forecasts.

The view of North Atlantic weather conditions will facilitate weather forecasting for continental North America, as the high altitude findings can be correlated with ships' surface weather reports.

Test flights of the Pan-American Airway clippers have demonstrated the need for the high altitude weather reports, and Gen. Vladimir Kokkinaki, Soviet transatlantic pilot who recently flew from Moscow to the St. Lawrence bay told the United Press that the high altitude weather reporting of all countries is notably deficient.

Heretofore, high altitude data in the North Atlantic have been available only from the infrequent flights of planes, hazardous over the fog-shrouded banks. The new balloons cost about $30 each, less than the expense of an airplane flight, and are equipped with a parachute to ease the landing, so that at least some of them may eventually be recovered. The balloons are inflated with helium.

Pittance Will Buy Life'sLuxuries in Zara, Italy

ZARA, ITALY.—The 22,000 people who live in this Italian city on the eastern shores of the Adriatic sea probably pay less for luxuries than any people anywhere else in the world.

In Zara gasoline costs five cents a gallon, American cigarettes eight cents, and movies 10 cents. Cherry brandy or Maraschino brandy, made here, costs 10 cents a fifth, while the best brands of whiskey can be bought for 80 cents a quart. A nickel will buy two pounds of spaghetti.

Comprising less than 15,000 acres and surrounded on three sides by Yugoslavia, Zara entered upon its career as a Scotchman's paradise in 1919 when the Italian government decided to make it a tax-free city. American cigarettes and high grade alcohols soon became Zara's principal industries and the local citizenry, although they earn no more than workers in other Italian towns, live like veritable millionaires.

Girl Sees UpsideDown With One Eye

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA.—The case of a nine-year-old girl who saw everything upside down through her left eye was described by J. Raphael, vice president of the South African Optical association, in the organization's official magazine.

Raphael said tests showed that her left eye was seeing objects as it would have at birth, namely inverted. She was trained to keep her right eye closed while she drew familiar objects with the aid of the left eye for an hour a day.

Recently her condition has been improving, Raphael said.

Scientists who have made scientific collections on the spawning grounds have calculated there may be as many as 500 million mackerel eggs floating on a single square mile of surface at one time. The principal spawning grounds of this fish are about 25,000 square miles. In that area there are often as many as 160 trillion eggs.

Carmer Gives Freeman Mention in New Book

Doubtless there will be considerable local interest in the latest book of the Rivers of America series, published by Farrar & Rinehart. It is entitled "The Hudson," and the author is Carl Carmer, who includes among his other work the well-known volume, "Stars Fell on Alabama."

He says in his preface that he has "tried to tell the story of the people who have lived in the Hudson Valley," and since necessarily there are limitations, has "tried to keep as near to the stream as I could and to avoid, where I thought it possible, things that happened out of sight of Hudson water."

In an acknowledgment the author thanks many people who have been kind to him during the three years he worked in libraries and in the towns along the river and who have talked to him or his representatives about the Hudson. Among those mentioned by the author in this connection are a number from this section, including: Poulney Bigelow of Malden; Captain George W. Murdock, Richard Gruver and H. P. Eighmey of Kingston; James Fleming of Rosendale. Bibliography includes the Kingston Daily Freeman of 1937.

The book is written in entertaining style and abounds in references to many localities along the length of the Hudson, well known names and characters, stories and tradition.

New Brunswick Food

European culinary tradition has many provincial strongholds in New Brunswick, where the descendants of Scotch, English, Irish and French settlers have preserved their menus and recipes in the face of Twentieth century standardization. Visitors find French cooking especially well adapted to the orchard and dairy products of farms north of the Maine border and the fish and sea-food along the coast. The simple New Brunswick hospitality is best expressed in cod outlets au fromage, ragout of halibut and lobster, rich pea soup and wild strawberry omelet. It is far well suited to a summer sports program that includes fresh-water and deep-sea fishing, swimming and boating.

Rents and Taxes

Latest figures reveal that, of the average rent bill, from 20% to 30% goes for taxes. It is estimated that when a family pays $40 a month rent, from $10 to $13.33 is for the purpose of satisfying the tax collector. Most of this burden, of course, is due to high Federal taxes.

PRESIDENT ASKED TO REUNITE PARENTS

A childish hand in Los Angeles, Cal., penned a letter to the President of the United States in the hope he could bring together again the family of John McNeil, separated recently by poverty and immigration laws. The writer was Marjorie McNeil, who told the chief executive "we want our mother and daddy back with us." Watching her is a sister, Colleen, one of four other children separated from their parents.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Convicts
Chester, Pa.—A motorist suspected of being drunk admitted to City Physician H. C. Donohoo that he had downed a couple of beers, but insisted that wasn't why he walked unsteadily.

Dr. Donohoo was convinced when the man unhitched two wooden legs.

Right-of-Way
Pittsburgh—The transport plane settled for a landing—but a mama pheasant spoiled it all.

As the big ship came into the runway, the pheasant, her brood of 10 trailing behind her, started across the concrete.

Captain W. J. McDonough, 50 feet above, gunned his motors, and gave mama pheasant right-of-way, while the plane swerved.

Carrying Charge
Goldendale, Wash.—Economy-minded Fire Chief Martin Spalding is convinced tires can wear too long to be economical.

He placed an order for a set to replace ones purchased 15 years ago, and was informed he would have to add four wheels for the fire truck to the order as the old size tires no longer are manufactured.

Sniffing Committee
Milwaukee—The town of Lake wants to know just how bad an oil refinery smells, because a company wants to spend $80,000 in the town to build one. The town fathers decided there was only one way to find out—to send a committee to St. Louis, Mich., where there are refineries, and just sniff around.

Special Services In Seamon Park

Saugerties, June 30.—The Ministerial Union and the Chamber of Commerce of Saugerties have arranged a series of Sunday evening services for July and August, under the chairmanship of the Rev. Gordon A. Riegler, pastor of the First Congregational Church. The services will be held at 7 o'clock in Seamon Park and will center around the discussion of "America's Unfinished Business." There will be no admission.

The services have been arranged to provoke genuine thinking by the common man on such topics as racial and religious discrimination, poverty, crime, ignorance, intolerance and disease, an increasing proportion of old people and a diminishing birth rate, together with the current problems.

Next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, Dr. Robert J. Bruce, new superintendent of the 344 Congregational Churches of New York, will be the speaker. He will be followed on successive Sunday evenings by such men as President Louis C. Wright, Baldwin-Wallace College, Cleveland, Ohio; Dr. John Kingsbury, who is an eminent authority on public health; Dr. Henry M. Robinson, editor of the Reader's Digest, who has written several books including one on crime; and two outstanding professors at Columbia University, Dr. Harold Rugg and Dr. James T. Shotwell.

The series has attracted the attention of such prominent citizens as Bishop Francis J. McConnell of New York city, who warmly endorses the project.

Woodstock Artists Open Exhibits

Woodstock, June 29.—The first exhibition in the Woodstock Art Gallery which opened June 24 will continue until July 5. The show is one of small paintings selected by jury.

A comparatively small group of artists is represented in the season's first exhibit, and a number of artists whose names are comparatively new to the art colony, are represented in the show.

The other exhibitions for the year will include one scheduled to open July 8 when small paintings, prints and water colors will be on display. Other exhibitions will be open July 22, August 12, September 2 and September 16.

Carl Eric Lindin is president of the Woodstock Artists' Association; Alice Wardwell, vice president; and Judson Smith, secretary-treasurer. Talks on Flag at Kiwanis Luncheon

Kingston Kiwanis had an interesting session at their biweekly luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday, the program including an address by Judge Joseph M. Fowler, a report of the convention of Kiwanis International held in Boston last week and honoring of the birthday anniversaries of two of the Kiwanians present, Charles Snyder, cashier of the National Ulster County Bank, and Allen A. Baker, county investigator. It was Song Leader Paul Zucca who evolved a formula that spotted the two "victims" of the anniversary tribute and who had them stand while their brother Kiwanians sang "Happy Birthday to You." President E. M. Huben and Pratt Boice represented the local club at the Boston convention, which was attended by some 5,000 or more Kiwanians from the United States and Canada, and which lasted three days. They were accompanied by their wives for the trip.

Mr. Boice was called upon to make the report and told an interesting story of the highlights of the convention, which represented 1,035 clubs and 105,000 members. He found particularly instructive addresses by William Green, president of the A. F. L., who presented labor's side of the industrial situation today and Roy W. Moore, president of the Canada Dry Ginger Ale Co., who spoke for industry. Following these speakers Sherman Rogers, associate editor of Outlook, spoke on labor relations from the viewpoint of the public, at the same time summing up and analyzing the points made by the preceding speakers. Mr. Rogers, who it appears is not unfamiliar with labor, having at one time, in the West, sherman, held that too often the trouble between labor, so-called and capital, is that they do not understand each other. He found that hate, caused by an ignorance of facts, was more than likely to make reasoning impossible. Capital and labor need each other, Mr. Rogers told the Kiwanians, and should work together to save democracy.

Features of the trip that appealed to the Kingston delegates were a boat trip about Boston harbor on Tuesday in which 3,700 of the visitors participated and an auto tour of the city on Wednesday. In the course of the latter they visited the water front and the big docks where the fishing boats land their cargoes and they were rather surprised to learn that on the average some 15 fishing boats come in daily, bringing cargoes from 125 to 300 tons of fish each.

Mr. Boice reported that Kingston Kiwanis had been recognized by the appointment of Kiwanian Roger H. Loughran as a member of the agricultural committee of Kiwanis International.

President Huben commented briefly on Mr. Boice's excellent report, adding that those who were privileged to participate in such a meeting came away with greatly increased appreciation of the work being done by Kiwanis, its widespread influence and the high character of the men enrolled in its membership.

Playhouse Offers 'Tops' in Comedy For Second Week

The Moss Hart-George S. Kaufman dandy, "You Can't Take It With You," opened last night at the Woodstock Playhouse and will continue through for a final showing Sunday night.

Audience reaction to this mixture of fireworks and philosophy proved it a hit locally and some fine performances were turned in by several members of the cast. The play, which makes life mostly honey and horseplay, moved along swiftly with everyone on the bill making the most of their chances to put "wallop" in lines and situations, which perhaps were familiar to most of the audience, who had either seen the play before or its movie version.

Velma Royton turned in a convincing performance as Penelope Sycamore, who wrote plays because somebody made the mistake of delivering a typewriter and the work of Donald McHenry as Martin Vanderhof, the grandpa who drifted to Utopia, was as effective. Other fine work was achieved by Margaret Randall as Olga, member of the forgotten Russian nobility with an up-state dialect and a big appetite. The performance of Ivan Triesault as Boris Kolonchov, the wrestling Russian, with still a bigger appetite, was also noteworthy.

Bram Nason as Mr. Kirby, Wall Street millionaire, and Edith

Gresham as Mrs. Kirby, showed up most effectively and Aileen B. Cramer was a decided hit as the tipsy actress. Marion E. Sittler, sustained much of the comedy as Essie, the would-be ballet dancer and Jean Barrere looked the part as her pre-occupied husband, Ed Carmichael.

The setting for this particular type of play was perhaps one of the best produced at the Playhouse since its opening, a year ago.

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

YESTERDAY: Tacks black-mailed Packy into accepting his bid to the Long Island party, by threatening not to call off the ferocious wolfhound, Lily.

Chapter 21

Dietetic Dilemma

AT THIS point the cab stopped for a traffic light. During the interval Tacks became possessed of a thought. Right then the attitude of the ravishing Miss North was frozen in the extreme. But there was no telling how soon she might thaw. And if the thawing process should take place before they reached her apartment house, who knew but what she would ask Mr. Adams in for a cup of tea or a drink? It was extremely unlikely, of course. But Tacks wished to be prepared, and he perceived that, in the event of such a splendid occurrence, the dog Lily could hardly be regarded as an asset. In fact, if Lily continued to keep up with the party, Tacks reasoned that his chances of being invited aloft for refreshment were practically nil. Wherefore he decided to ditch Lily.

He waited until the cab neared the apartment house in which his Aunt Vera had her abode. Then he addressed the driver.

"Hey!" he called suddenly. "Stop here a minute."

Packy glanced up. "What now?" she demanded sharply.

"Nothing to get steamed up about. The doorman in that house is a friend of mine. I'm going to leave this dog with him, that's all."

Packy looked at him suspiciously for a second. Then she opened her mouth, but shut it again without speaking. Tacks got out, hauled Lily from the prominence of the front seat and piloted her across the street.

Before Mrs. Sackville's apartment house stood a dignitary in a blue uniform. Tacks hailed him.

"Listen, Fritz," he said. "Will you take this mutt up to my aunt's apartment? I'm in a hurry. I've got a girl in a taxi across the street and . . . hey, what on earth is the matter with you?"

For the doorman appeared not to be listening. The doorman was gazing streetward, past the shoulder of Mr. Adams. The doorman spoke.

"I'd be glad to take this dog up to your aunt's apartment, Mr. Adams," he said. "Only it won't be necessary."

Tacks stared at him. "What the . . . say, are you crazy?"

The doorman extended a stern finger. Tacks wheeled and followed it.

The taxicab, with Packy inside, was tearing down Fifth Avenue in a manner to indicate that all the fiends of the Pit were breathing at its rear bumper. And from the conveyance there waved neither handkerchief nor lily-white hand.

In fact, there waved nothing at all. The jaw of Mr. Adams dropped.

"What," he exclaimed, in dismay, "do you know about that?"

"And that," concluded the doorman, in the tone of one who has set out to make a point and intends to make it, "is what I meant when I said that it wouldn't be necessary for me to take this dog up to your aunt's apartment."

The Curse Of Flesh

JUMBO CUTLER was hurrying along the street. As a general rule, Mr. Cutler made it a practice never to hurry. In the books of the gods it was written that Jumbo Cutler was a born counterer. Equipped with this divine gift at the outset Jumbo, in early youth, had improved his status by mastering the art of loitering. But geniuses are never satisfied. By degrees and by rigid application he had schooled himself to loaf, trifle and dillydally as well. In the course of time he had also become no mean dawdler. And by early manhood he exhibited such proficiency in these allied fields that his normal gait was one that would have provoked titters from a snail.

Wherefore the sight of Mr. Cutler marching briskly along the byways of New York was a noteworthy phenomenon. But it was not one that need have baffled scientists. Jumbo walked swiftly because (a) he wished to reduce and (b) the street that he had chosen for purposes of peregrination seemed to be lined with nothing except restaurants, hash houses and other emporiums specializing in the dispensation of food.

Little Geraldine had now want to know what food had to do with it. The answer is, everything. For to say that Jumbo was hungry would be gross understatement. Jumbo had hungered to end hunger. His whole being was racked, seethed and vibrated with an all-consuming desire for food. He was positive that, with practically no urging, he could have sprinkled vinegar on the Pennsylvania Station and eaten it raw. The red light of madness gleamed in his eyes. There was a weight on his soul and a pang on his stomach. And a girl was the cause of it all.

Ever since that bygone day when Van Harkness had discovered him trilling merrily on the electric horse, Jumbo had been living on love. To that athletic lady of his dreams, Miss Luella West, he had sworn an oath to eliminate ten pounds of solid flesh from his marching equipment. With a world of confidence he had gone about the business of fulfilling this mission. He had exercised until his rotund body screamed for mercy through a veritable sea of perspiration. He had eschewed alcohol rigidly. He had denied his aching stomach to the point of starvation. But for all his Herculean endeavors, he had been able to divest his person of but five miserable pounds.

Jumbo simply couldn't understand it. It seemed to him that his system possessed some devilish chemistry that manufactured flesh in record time. But, just at the moment, he was not primarily concerned with explanations. The thing that pricked his mind with red-hot needles was the fact that today was Friday and tomorrow the game of North, South, East and West would end.

He could foresee exactly what was going to happen. On the morrow he and Luella would proceed to a certain drugstore and there, on the scales, would end his roseate dreams of a wife and fireside. Luella, he knew, was a girl of character. She had set him a task and he had failed. That settled it. Luella would never condone failure. Already he could hear her saying: "I'm sorry, Cutler. But you miss by five pounds. It's no part of my plan to journey through life with something that looks like a grampus out of condition. It's all over, Cutler. We're washed up."

Yes, washed up. And all because, doomed to demerit by some heathenish deity, he carried the curse of flesh. So he would go on, he supposed, miserably, wretchedly, growing ever broader and more bloated. And gradually he would become a pathetic, tragic figure or, mayhap, an object of derision, alluded to by all as the man who couldn't make the weight.

While reviewing his doom, Jumbo became conscious of a delectable aroma. He glanced up and perceived that he was passing a one-arm joint from whose interior this enchanting odor issued. He bounded forward. This must not be. This was temptation of a terrible kind. But the bound did little good. He was walking in a perfect maze of eating houses. The next thing he knew he stood face to face with a gentleman who was flipping pancakes in a restaurant window.

This time Jumbo's courage failed him. He could not resist having a look at the pancakes. He edged close to the window and eyed them as the ravenous pike eyes the minnow. A slightly insane expression came to rest upon his face. He pressed his nose against the glass and suffered. Within, the pancake flipper, conscious of an audience, performed miracles of jugglery with pancakes.

Sick at heart, Jumbo turned away. Was any woman worth such agony? Assuredly to be mad with hunger was hideous enough without having the entire city of New York ganging him with food. And the end was not yet. There seemed no limit to it. He had not proceeded twenty feet before he came upon a cat who was concerned with a fish head in the gutter.

Fishy

COMING to a dead stop Jumbo stared at the animal, speechless. This was the final irony. When it transpired that the beasts of the gutter might dine regally on fish heads while the scion of one of New York's better families went about with an empty stomach, things had got to a pretty pass. Jumbo bestowed such a glare of mingled envy and disapproval upon the cat that the feline snatched up the fish head hastily and departed.

Jumbo breathed easier. He was glad that that had gone. The fish head had tormented and maddened him. But, with terrible clarity, he recognized that he was not out of the woods yet. He had dispersed the fish head magnificently, but he was anatomist enough to realize that he could not disperse his own stomach. And if something were not introduced to that stomach in short order, he would go stark staring mad. Thinking carefully, Jumbo made up his mind. Food, of course, was out of the question. But he remembered that Luella West, in her discourses on dietetics, had ascribed certain sustaining properties to alcohol. Very well, he would test this theory.

A combination bar and luncheon room loomed in the offing. Jumbo's eyes dilated. And then he acted. Emitting a woofing sound he charged the door. The door gave. The place was deserted save for a lugubrious individual with a depressed mustache who stood behind the bar peering at glasses.

"Scotch!" said Jumbo peremptorily, marching up to the bar. "Soda!"

The bartender looked at him with sad, watery eyes. At the same moment Jumbo noted a bowl of cheese popcorn which reclined on the bar. He shied as a mustang shies at sight of the rifle rather than the matter? "Inquired the bartender, starting. He was a sensitive soul, given to nerves.

"N-nothing," said Jumbo. "Hurrying up with that drink!"

The bartender set the drink before him. Jumbo qualified it at a gulp. Then, made affable by the burning sensation in his throat, he took cognizance of the bartender in a social way.

"Nice day," he said conversationally.

The bartender looked as if he were about to burst into tears.

"Oh, I don't know," he intoned monotonously. "It may rain."

Jumbo surprised his left hand in the act of sliding toward the cheese popcorn. He withdrew it hastily.

"Nonsense," he said to the bartender. "Why, there isn't a cloud in the sky."

The bartender smiled superiorly.

"Don't let that fool you," he said, in measured accents. "Things happen when you least expect them."

"Yes?" said Jumbo, in the tone of one who would hear more.

"Like last winter," the bartender said, "my sister Minnie goes out in the morning. Fine, clear day, it was. Almost like spring. Well—" through a veritable sea of perspiration. He had eschewed alcohol rigidly. He had denied his aching stomach to the point of starvation. But for all his Herculean endeavors, he had been able to divest his person of but five miserable pounds.

When a girl discovers she can't make a fool of a man, she decides there is no use wasting time with such a fool.

Judge—Perhaps counsel for the defense would like to explain the meaning of the expression, "See you?"

Counsel (rising)—Your honor, it would appear that it is a slang expression of American origin which has gained regrettable currency in the language of the cinema. It is, I am given to understand, employed to indicate a state of dubiety as to the credibility or veracity of a statement made by a speaker.

Judge—Oh, yeah!

Miracle Numbers While experimenting, a Greek mathematician found one number which behaves very strangely when it is multiplied. It is the six-figure number, 142,857. When it is multiplied by 2, the result is 285,714. Those very figures, differently arranged! The same phenomenon is repeated when it is multiplied by 3. The result is 428,571. Multiplying it by 4 we find, 571,428. Multiplying it by 5 we have, 714,285. When it is multiplied by 6 the two groups of figures in the basic number merely change places, 857,142. We continue this multiplication and a great surprise awaits us, for 7 times the number suddenly equals 999,999.—From La Pratik.

Prospects for Worker Better

Study of Buying Power of Family Shows Gain Over Year Ago.

MINNEAPOLIS. — With pay checks partially recovered and living costs still down, the average wage-earner's family is now as well off financially as in the spring of 1937, and is definitely ahead of its situation as of a year ago, according to a current study of family buying power just completed by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Average monthly wages per worker rose gradually from last November through March of this year, with a dip in April, the study shows, while the cost of living has declined with little interruption since October, 1937.

Food for an average family costs about $4 a month less this spring than it did in the spring of 1937; about a dollar and a quarter less than in the spring of 1938. Average rental rates are about the same as in the spring of '37; clothing costs a little less; the family car can operate more cheaply because gasoline is lower.

Pay Check Climbed.
A typical family earning $120 a month at average wage rates of 1933 and spending the same sum for living at 1933's average prices, had to pay $140.88 to maintain the same standard of living in April, 1937, but meanwhile its monthly pay check, based on industrial pay roll figures, had climbed to $147.36.

At price levels of April, 1938, it cost the same family $138.60 for its living expenses, while its wage income had shrunk to almost the identical figure—$138.62. By April, 1939, the family's monthly outgoes had fallen to $135.11; meanwhile its pay check had climbed to $142.62.

A month's supply of food for a family of four, obtainable for $30 at 1933 prices, cost $38.67 for the same items in April, 1937; $35.88 in April of 1938, and $34.61 in April of this year. Though the long decline in living costs leveled off in April, the report states, wholesale food prices again dropped sharply the third week in May.

Average Wages Rise.
Average wages per worker in February, 1939, were actually above February of 1937, the study shows. From January through April of 1937, however, the spurt in wages was spectacularly swift, the report recalls. The rise since last October has been gradual, and with the dip in April, has not kept pace with the 1937 spring pay roll expansion, which reached its peak in May of that year. Living costs spurred upward in early 1937 also, however; in 1939 they have actually worked lower. Thus the average family is fully as well off now in terms of actual buying power as it was in the spring of '37, the report states.

Reflecting the nation-wide expansion in building, construction employment has shown a gratifying increase. The seasonal spring pick-up in retail employment has been above average; the gain in total factory employment has been below average, with the aircraft industry, spurred by war orders, standing out as a shining exception; employment in the aviation industry is running almost double what it was in 1929, the study states.

Fish Are Revealed as Fashioning Gravel Nests

MONTREAL. — Quebec province has two species of fish that use a ton of gravel to build a nest. Dr. L. R. Richardson, McGill university authority on fresh-water fish, reveals that the fish, one known as fall fish or "Leuciscus corporalis," and the other as chub fish, are waiting for the disappearance of ice in lakes and rivers before starting extensive building operations.

Shortly after the ice goes out, the male of the fall fish species picks a likely spot and starts accumulating gravel. The ground floor is a bed of gravel five to six inches high, 10 to 12 feet long, and three to five feet wide.

Then he drives the female over the bed. She spawns and the male starts immediately to cover up the eggs with a pile of gravel which ultimately attains a height of about three feet.

The nests may be observed protruding above the surface during low water in the summer, and later are washed away by ice.

The eggs hatch in a week, and about three weeks later the young fish wriggle out between the stones, which are about a half inch to two inches in diameter.

The chub fish build a smaller nest on the same plane.

Boy Builds Heart Model Out of Glass and Rubber

BOSTON. — A 16-year-old boy constructed a working model of a human heart from scrap glass and rubber tubing and old bits of apparatus at a cost of a little over a dollar. The heart pumps "blood" through the veins and arteries of the model, changing from red to blue color and back to red again, same as it would in human body.

Link Is Missing in Twins' Thought Chain
CLEVELAND. — The theory that twins know instinctively what is happening to each other didn't work in the case of Mrs. Mary H. Schlegel, 60.
Walking with her twin, Mrs. Catherine Bassett, Mrs. Schlegel had her purse snatched. Unaware that anything had happened, her twin walked on, believing her sister still was at her side.

risked his own life to enter the flaming house.

Mr. Kiraly was treated at the Kingston Hospital but finally succumbed to the injuries without being able to tell what happened. The cause of the explosion probably never will be known. At the time there was about a pound of the high explosive compound in the building where it was being mixed.

Funeral services will be held from the late residence, 24 St. Mary's street, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial in the family plot in Willowick cemetery.

Mr. Kiraly is survived by his mother, Mrs. Maude Kiraly of Kingston, one brother Carlton of Kingston and three sisters, Minnie, Betty and Geraldine Kiraly all of Kingston.

Betty Elsworth Fractures Right Thigh in Fall

Miss Betty Elsworth, daughter of County Attorney and Mrs. Roscoe V. Elsworth of Port Jervis, fractured her right thigh in a fall from a step ladder Thursday morning. She was taken to the Kingston Hospital where her injury was treated by Dr. George W. Ross and Dr. Saul Ritchie. A fortunate feature of the accident was that the break was about in the middle of the thigh, so that no permanent injury is looked for.

The accident happened when the little girl, who is not yet four years old, went up a step ladder which had been left standing under a cherry tree and tried to pick some cherries.

Arabs Injured in Blast

Jerusalem, June 30 (AP)—Injury of 11 Arabs in a cafe bomb explosion in one of Jerusalem's main streets today caused authorities to impose an 8 o'clock curfew nightly on all Jewish cafes until further notice. Authorities directed also that all Jewish traffic in and out of Jerusalem cease from noon today until 6 p. m. Sunday. During the morning an Arab workman was shot dead by an unidentified assailant in the orthodox Jewish quarter near Shearim, in northern Jerusalem.

Buckner Jolted

New York, June 30 (AP)—William P. Buckner, Jr., was jolted out of his nonchalance today as his own lawyer, defending him against mail fraud and conspiracy charges, called him an "impulsive fool" and the government prosecutor labeled him "a callous young renegade."

The Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau on Fair street was a busy place today when the office began to issue half year license plates. Where the first of July falls on Saturday or Sunday half year plates are issued on June 30.

PICNIC INDEPENDENCE!

Independence—Freedom from restraint! Picnic—A pleasant time or experience. Put the two together and you have, "A pleasant time affording freedom." Yes, that's picnic independence—be it indoors, at home on the lawn, or off to the country with a basket piled high with fancy victuals. Camping, hiking, riding, autoing, or even staying at home can be made a day of picnic independence if you want to make it one. And when you're thinking about that freedom from restraint—indeed, as it were—think about freedom from the kitchen range. With ready-to-serve foods, it can easily be accomplished and there could be no more appropriate time than the Fourth of July to declare your independence from the kitchen and homemaking duties in favor of a picnic.

PICNIC AWAY

Some families prefer to spend their holidays by driving to a favorite park or spot of beauty, eating their lunch either there or on the way. For these picnickers, a metal box is ideal. In it pack a dish of piping-hot scalloped potatoes, which have first been wrapped in several layers of newspaper. Such a dish will keep warm well over an hour. In addition, take rolls, butter, ripe tomatoes, chili sauce, pickles, cake, cookies, bananas and a thermos jug of coffee. You'll need paper plates, forks and knives and cups strong enough to hold hot coffee.

SCALLOPED POTATOES WITH HAM

FRESH VEGETABLE SALAD — ASSORTED COLD CUTS — CORN MEAL DODGERS

PICNIC AT HOME

For the home picnic, served out-of-doors on the veranda, in the summer house, on the terrace, or under the trees, we suggest an assorted cold meat platter, a crisp salad bowl and brown and crunchy corn bread sticks. In addition, you'll need condiments and plenty of them, plus dessert and beverage. If you're an automatic refrigerator, make an ice and ice-box cookies for dessert. If not, serve watermelon.

The salad bowl illustrated contains onion rings, sliced cucumber, lettuce, celery, cooked green butter beans, crisp carrot straws and a few slices of pickled beets to add a touch of color. If you're an expert salad-maker in the crowd, provide the oil, lemon juice, mustard, salt and seasonings and let him mix the salad while the guests look on—or use a prepared Russian or French dressing.

WHAT TO DO WITH COLD CUTS

Select a variety of cold cuts. The old stand-bys are always good; but some different, strange varieties will arouse comments from your guests. Many cold cuts have an outer covering or "skin" which should be removed before serving. The large square slices might be cut diagonally, as shown in the illustration, and some of the circular or smaller square pieces might be cut in half—this to make a pleasing pattern on the cold meat platter. For garnishes, use parsley, radishes and cubes of cheese pierced with a toothpick.

CORN MEAL DODGERS

1½ cups yellow corn meal, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1½ tablespoons triple-creamed shortening (melted), 1 cup less 2 tablespoons boiling water. Mix the corn meal, salt and shortening, and add boiling water. Shape into small pones or dodgers, brush with melted shortening and bake in a well-greased skillet in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) for 45-50 minutes. Yield: 8.

Pupils Get Practical Course In How to Dial Right Numbers

A Telephone Class In Session

By the AP Feature Service. Knoxville, Tenn.—Tom Smith, youthful school principal, thought it would be a good idea to give his 8 to 12-year-old pupils a practical course in telephoning. He put it up to them in a questionnaire. The pupils thought it would be a good idea, so now there's a telephone and directory at every desk in one classroom, and the dials click busily as the boys and girls work at such details as:

Speaking distinctly; knowing what you want to say before making the call; explaining clearly, courteously and immediately who you are and what the call is for; listening attentively to what the other person has to say; allowing the person who called to close the conversation.

Army to Begin New Era of Expansion

Will Campaign for 112,500 Enlistments; Craig Asks More Action

Washington, June 30 (AP)—The army launches tomorrow its greatest expansion since the World War, with its retiring chief of staff recommending even greater increases than those already authorized.

A recruiting drive to enlist 112,000 soldiers as additions and replacements will start with the beginning of the government's new fiscal year, but General Malin Craig proposed in his final report an "economical, properly balanced" defense plan involving a further increase of 25,000 men.

To attain a "position of readiness," Craig said the United States required:

An Alaska-Hawaii-Panama-Puerto Rico outpost line fortified and manned for instant action.

A regular army and National Guard of about 200,000 each, expanded by five full divisions of seasoned regulars to be kept ready to reinforce quickly the outpost line. Four partial divisions are available now, and Craig said to provide the five would require about 1,800 more officers and 23,000 men.

Full arms and equipment to expand the army in an emergency to a million men.

Congress already has directed partial fulfillment of the recommendations by approving the administration's $552,000,000 defense program.

General Craig stressed his recommendations represented "overdue" requirements rather than an effect of new international crises.

This was the final day of 45 years active army service for the plain-spoken Missourian, who announced he would retire to California and "practice keeping my mouth shut."

Craig reaches the retirement age of 64 on August 5, but he voluntarily stepped aside to give his successor, Brigadier General George C. Marshall, a free hand at the start of the fiscal year.

TOMMY HITCHCOCK

WHO HE IS

THE hardest-riding, hardest-hitting polo player who ever lived is a big, quiet man so modest he just says, "I was with the French in the World War"—and doesn't tell you he flew with the Lafayette Escadrille at 17 and was shot down and imprisoned. He is a partner in a New York investment bank, where he's on the job from 9 to 5. But he pilots his own seaplane between Westbury, Long Island, and the plane anchorage at the foot of Wall Street—and so gets home in time to practice polo of a summer evening. Playing for 18 years (he's 39 now), he has dominated the game longer than any other man has any sport. His wife is a grandniece of Andrew W. Mellon. Their two daughters, 9 and 5, ride now and are going to play polo, too.

"I don't know how long I'll go on playing polo. I don't think any man plays top polo at 50. You've got to work hard at the game, take it as seriously as you do business. That is, if you are going to be good and stay good."

"Yes, polo's a good game. Certainly more interesting than baseball. But you've got to popularize it. Hard to get the football crowd to come to polo matches. Take my wife, she likes football."

"Can't make any money with polo unless you price the tickets lower. Last spring we filled the stands at Meadowbrook because the seats were only a dollar. Seats were too expensive here at the British-American matches. Pete Bostwick does a good job. He charges only 50 cents at his field, and packs them in."

"But another thing about polo: It doesn't matter where you sit. You can see from any point in the stands. Different from a prize fight."

"I keep in condition playing tennis weekends. I don't play any indoor polo during the winter. Last winter I got interested in skiing. Ever skied up in the White Mountains? So far I haven't broken any bones skiing. Knock on wood."

Anniversary Program Held at Huling's Barn

Some 300 friends of Bill Fitzpatrick attended his anniversary program at Huling's Barn last night and enjoyed the exceptional program of entertainment, commemorating the opening of the Barn six years ago.

The show, one of the most elaborate ever put on at the night club, featured a dance and fashion revue, two radio celebrities, Miss Helene Mae Carson Robison, and Mark Huling with his seal Jumbo, making his debut as a performer outside of Seal College.

Larry LaRochelle's band, featuring Frances Dobie and Arnold Stanley, soloists, added to the popularity which has kept this ensemble at The Barn for several months, with special arrangements and dance music.

Traces Plains To Forest Fires

Farmer Believes Nebraska Covered With Trees In 12th Century.

NORTH PLATTE, NEB.—A forest fire which swept western Nebraska following a prolonged drought in the Twelfth century may have been the contributing cause of the barren sandhills overlooking both sides of the Platte river.

So believes Harry Weekley of the Nebraska experimental farm at North Platte, who began studying trees as a hobby and after years of research has brought forth evidence that western Nebraska was covered in the Twelfth century by a forest of virgin red cedars.

By measuring and comparing the growth rings of trees which have died recently, Weekley developed a graph depicting the increased and decreased cycle of rainfall over a period of years.

Traces Rain to 1866.
Applying the graph to lumber from trees which died at an undetermined time, Weekley arrived at the dates of their death. Through this tedious method, he traced intermittent drought and high rainfall periods back to 1866.

Three years ago, excavation for an irrigation canal brought to light three stumps of two red cedars which once grew in the Platte valley. Their growth rings did not correlate with any of the periods back to 1866 but did match the Twelfth century growth ring graphs of a University of Arizona scientist, Dr. A. E. Douglas.

Since then, Weekley has discovered in canyons along the Platte valley so many similar red cedars that he concluded the valley and foothills once were covered with virgin forest.

Drought for 35 Years.

Study disclosed, Weekley said, that the trees died from a drought of 35 years duration. With the vegetation gone from the soil, prairie winds covered the canyons with dust, sometimes 13 feet deep.

Later Weekley said, a great fire apparently raged through the vegetation which arose above the drifts. The fact that two-foot trees were consumed indicates the intensity of the fire, he explained.

With all vegetation destroyed, winds played havoc with the soil and the sandhills formed from the drifting sands, Weekley theorizes. In the space of time, a period of light winds permitted grass to grow and the sandhills assumed their present form.

Loser in Fight for Girl Wins Her in an Upset

LONDON.—Two young men, in love with 18-year-old Joyce Williams of Maesteg, Glamorgan, Wales, decided to settle their quarrel by fighting for her.

They met—Ronnie Jones and Billy Thomas—in the local boxing ring. Joyce could not watch them. She agreed to wait outside for the result. Inside the two men fought toe to toe in a battle that made on-lookers gasp.

Jones hit harder. He wore Thomas down. His partisans yelled encouragements. After four rounds the referee held up Jones' hand. "Ronnie wins! Ronnie wins," they shouted.

Joyce, waiting outside, heard them. Thomas, bruised and beaten, slipped out unnoticed on his way home. But Joyce caught his arm and went with him. When Jones came out Joyce had gone. Later Joyce said:

"The loser in this case won. I suppose I loved Billy all along."

Said Billy: "Ron and I have settled our squabbles and shaken hands over it. But Joyce is my girl now."

This 'House With a Future' Allows for Extra Bedroom

By The AP Feature Service

Here's a grow house designed for the family which wants to add just one bedroom in the future. The dining alcove is planned with a wide entrance into the living room to give a greater feeling of space. A door in the rear hallway of the original plan allows entrance to the future room, indicated by dotted lines. Cost of the basic house in an average mid-western community would be about $2,015. The future bedroom would cost about $340. These figures do not include the cost of the lot, range, architect's service and similar items. They would run to about $750. Although figured for lowest costs, this design meets rigid requirements of the Federal Housing Authority.

Aerialist Walks Again

Nature has equipped the caribou with the broadest hoof known to deer, a four-toed affair which permits it to walk on top of crusted snow.

'Hadrian's Wall' Built by Ruler as Defense Line

Hadrian's wall, one of the tourist wonders of northeast England, located near Carlisle, was built early in the second century under the direction of the emperor Hadrian, and was intended as the first line of defense against the wild tribes of Picts and later of Scots who migrated from Ireland to north Britain. The structure was about 15 feet high and eight wide, with a five-foot parapet on top of the north side to protect the patrol. It was made of rubble, faced with cut stone.

About every four miles was a walled fort covering several acres, built to accommodate from 500 to 1,000 soldiers. At intervals of a mile between the forts were smaller posts, called milecastles. In addition there were two turrets, 14 feet square, between the milecastles, where sentries were maintained.

Many of the garrisons were permanently stationed on the wall. The soldiers, who might have been recruited in any part of the empire, from North Africa and Spain to Syria, Central Europe, France and Germany, often married British women who lived in the towns that grew up around each fort. The sons of such marriages usually joined the army.

Of Canada's Indians, some 60,000 depend in whole or in part on farming for a livelihood, and about 50,000 live by hunting, fishing or trapping. The remainder include many who have entered professional and commercial life as well as a large number who might be described as laborers or industrial workers.

Cafe Dancer Dies In Hotel Plunge

New York, June 30 (AP)—Eluding the grasp of a man who said he had rejected her pleas of marriage, a 19-year-old cafe dancer plunged nine stories to her death today from the window of the Van Cortlandt Hotel.

She was Eileen O'Connor, of Clifton, N. J., known professionally as Blai Buchard. Alexander Bukocsk, 25, who vainly sought to save her, told police the girl came here about 10 days ago after finishing a dancing engagement in Baltimore.

The girl, he said, sought to renew her acquaintance with him. Last night, he related, they visited several restaurants and then went to his room where she implored him to marry her. He said he was unemployed and could not assume the responsibility. Thereupon, Bukocsk said, the young woman made a dash for the window. He managed to grab her, he said, but she broke free.

Charged With Theft of $153

George Dutcher, 27, of 45 North street, Kingston, is being held at the Ulster county jail to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny. It is alleged that Dutcher stole $153 from the coat of William Clark of Ellenville, while the coat was hanging in the Clark home. Clark reported the theft to Sergeant John Hopkins of Ellenville and the latter with Trooper Nolan and Troopers Metzger and Fardham of the B. C. I. began an investigation that resulted in Dutcher's arrest by the B. C. I. man Thursday. He was arraigned before Justice Melvin D. Schoonmaker of Ellenville, who held him for the grand jury.

Trooper Metzger said that Dutcher had confessed to taking the money from Clark's coat; also that a deputy sheriff's badge found in his possession was one that he had stolen from a coat at Forestburg, N. Y., on May 21. A check-up showed that the badge was one that had been issued to Harris Brown of Kingston and the loss of which he had reported to the sheriff on May 21.

Eskimos Critics of Culture of Whites

Pick Laws They Would Obey, Disregard Others.

BETHEL, ALASKA—Eskimos do not accept white people as being superior but instead are rather critical of them, according to Miss Anna Martin, a teacher here, native and high school graduate of Dayton, Iowa, former student in Universities of Iowa, Colorado and California, now special student in San Jose State college, California. The Arctic schoolman has taught eight years in Bethel.

"The Eskimos' attitude toward even missionaries, school teachers and all outsiders, regardless of their superior learning and culture," Miss Martin asserted, "is very critical."

"They are appreciative of the merit of truly outstanding people and are scornful of failure. By nature the Eskimo is brutally frank and childishly naive. Approval or disapproval can be read in their faces."

Aside from this, Miss Martin declared, teaching young Eskimos the three R's and other subjects is no different from teaching other children.

Miss Martin prepared especially for her northern job by taking the special student courses at San Jose State college.

Tall and earnest, Miss Martin said the attitude of the Eskimos regarding the laws of the white man is that if the law seems reasonable to them, they accept it and abide by it. However, if they don't like a law or if it doesn't seem reasonable to them, they just pack up and move off to a more distant hunting or fishing camp. But on the whole, as a people, they are gentle and law abiding.

"The Eskimos put on the teachings of the missionaries," she commented, "like they do a gift of clothing. The new is put on over the old."

"They are usually converted on the surface, but underneath, they cling to their old beliefs and taboos."

Pelican Gets First Aid From New Orleans Police

NEW ORLEANS—Pete the Pelican's first brush with the law wasn't so bad.

Patrolman William Reese found the bird on a street in New Orleans' business district. He took Pete home and discovered that the bird's pouch had been badly cut.

Thirty-two stitches took care of the pelican's fish carrier.

Reese kept Pete for a week on charges of reckless flying.

Recovered, Pete took off from the policeman's back yard for his home in the swamps where regulations are dictated by nature's migratory urges.

Half of Wheat Belt Dry Again

Lack of Moisture Indicates Shortage in Grain; Light Winter Crop.

CHICAGO—Reports of drought covering a large part of the American wheat belt and extending north into the three western Canadian provinces have been received. It was estimated that over 50 per cent of the total North American wheat acreage is in the dry area.

A large part of the area seeded to wheat west of the 100th meridian was said to be rather urgently in need of additional moisture. There has been steady deterioration in the outlook for winter wheat in parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, and estimates on the probable harvest are being revised downward.

The department of agriculture's report suggested 544,000,000 bushels of winter wheat. This is the smallest crop in about 25 years, with the exception of the 1933-35 period, when domestic production dropped below requirements. Last year's crop was a bumper one at 667,000,000 bushels.

Speculators Perk Up.

The combination of a shortage of surface and subsoil moisture in the American Northwest has caused wheat speculators to pay much more attention to weather reports from the latter area than they normally do at this season. While seeding has been completed and there was sufficient moisture to germinate the grain additional moisture must be received in the immediate future in order to prevent rapid deterioration in the outlook. A Chicago expert, after allowing for past weather conditions and normal precipitation to July 1, suggested that the spring wheat crop in the Dakotas may be about 30,000,000 bushels less than in 1938.

The outlook at the present time is for a possible aggregate wheat crop of about 750,000,000 bushels, experts say, or about the same as the average for the 1927-36 period—about 80,000,000 bushels in excess of domestic requirements.

Corn Planting Well Along.

Planting of corn made rapid progress as the result of favorable weather conditions. The critical stage in the growth of the corn crop will come late in July and early in August when it starts to tassle. It is at this time that rain and moderate temperatures are most essential if a large yield is to be secured. The trend of the market is expected to be determined largely by weather conditions during that period.

All deliveries of wheat, oats, and soy beans have sold at new seasonal high prices. The small grains were affected mainly by dry weather reports, and soy beans by a scarcity of the cash article. Despite a record crop of soy beans harvested last year supplies are reported to be unusually light.

Vermont Marks Birthday Of First Morgan Horse

MONTPELIER, VT.—The 150th anniversary of the birth of a horse is being celebrated by Vermont this year.

The horse was Justin Morgan, recognized as foundation stock for the American saddle horse, for the Tennessee walking horse.

When in Springfield, Mass., as a three-year-old colt, the horse was taken by one Justin Morgan, a music teacher, in exchange for an unpaid $25 bill and brought to the latter's new Randolph, Vt., home.

At first the horse was known as Figure, later as Justin Morgan's Figure and finally as Justin Morgan. Evidence proves that he was sired by the thoroughbred True Briton, otherwise known as Beautiful Bay, which was stolen from Colonel De Lancey, the Tory, by three Yankees at King's Bridge, N. Y., during the Revolutionary war. The dam was a daughter of Wild Air, another of the great sires of the day.

Recognizing that the name Morgan has come to mean "beauty, spirit and action to all lovers of the horse, and (that) the Morgan horses for many years held the world's record for trotting horses," the Vermont legislature appointed a special committee to play for the 150th anniversary of the horse's birth.

England Imports Fleas

Earliest Fireplace Of Man Discovered

ROME—What is believed here to be the earliest known fireplace made by man has been found in a grotto near San Felipe Circeo, on the coast between Rome and Naples.

It is believed to be 130,000 years old and to belong to the final Ice age.

A landslide which occurred thousands of years before Ulysses sailed these waters and encountered the bewitching Circe kept it intact until its discovery by a young Italian archeologist, Prof. A. C. Bianc.

Mountain climbers from all parts of the world will assemble in Yoho National Park, Canada, when the 34th annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada is held from July 15 to July 29. This year's camp will be known as the "Goodsir Camp," and will be held at the base of the peaks of that name, near the head of Ice River valley.

Statesmen of Past Urged Temperance

Appeal by Madison, Jackson, Adams Recalled.

DWIGHT, ILL.—The youth of America were urged to hear an appeal for temperance made more than a century ago by James Madison, Andrew Jackson, and John Quincy Adams.

Speaking before several hundred people gathered here under the auspices of the temperance and health education committee of the Illinois Church council Dr. R. E. Maupir of the medical staff of the Keeley institute, quoted the appeal by the three great American statesmen made in 1825, as follows:

"Being satisfied from observation and experience as well as from medical testimony that ardent spirits as a drink are not only needless, but hurtful and that the entire disuse of it would tend to promote the health, the virtue and the happiness of the country and we hereby express our conviction that should the citizens of the United States and especially the young men discountenance the use of it, they would not only promote their own personal benefit but the good of our country and of the world" (Signed) James Madison, Andrew Jackson, John Quincy Adams.

President John Adams was an unremitting foe of liquor and would be considered a fanatic if he were living today, Dr. Maupir pointed out.

Prime Minister William E. Gladstone of England, he said, characterized drink as "more destructive than war, pestilence and famine combined."

Since the repeal of prohibition the ease with which liquor is now obtainable, Dr. Maupir declared, makes its use purely an individual problem to the average person.

"Each person must decide the question of drink for himself," the Keeley physician said, "and since the responsibility rests entirely with him he is entitled to know what alcoholism does to him."

Citing facts based on studies by leading scientists showing the destructive effects of alcohol on the brain, the heart, the nervous system and the digestive tract, Dr. Maupir declared that the idea that alcohol has any benefits as a medicine is entirely out of date.

Lawyer Admitted to Bar After 24-Year Practice

SALT LAKE CITY—After 24 years of practicing law, State Sen. Silas E. Tanner believed it was about time for him to take the state bar examination.

For almost a quarter of a century Tanner has acted as Wayne county attorney. His office permitted him to practice, but not privately, as an attorney.

"I didn't think I could pass the examination," he said. He took it recently, however, and passed with honors. The Utah Supreme court installed him as a practicing lawyer and the state senate adjourned to attend the ceremonies.

During the World war, Tanner acted as appeal attorney for the government. He served in the Utah house of representatives in 1919 and in the senate in 1937.

Britain Plans Bounties To Increase Birth Rate

LONDON—The British government may offer bounties to parents who produce larger and better families, the Sunday Chronicle's political correspondent reports.

The writer said that the government first would undertake a nationwide propaganda drive and then offer financial inducements. He adds that the bounty scheme being considered is on these lines:

Family allowances under which married couples will be paid a bounty of 5 shillings ($1.25) a week for the first child and 3 shillings (75 cents) a week for subsequent children; increased income-tax rebates where family includes children; increased allowances for the children of unemployed men.

Mustard Gas Is Still 'King' of War Chemicals

EDGEWOOD, MD.—A generation of researchers have passed since the Germans first used mustard gas against the British in April, 1917, but that blistering weapon remains the "king" of chemical warfare, army chemical experts said today.

It is in the field of devising defenses against that scourge that the army's chemical warfare service has been most effective since the World war.

However, the nation does not lag in making and method of using toxic gases. Members of the American Chemical society, who inspected the arsenal recently, were assured our army holds an enviable position in regard to chemical warfare.

In the same gallery hangs the work of some of Vanderlyn's acquaintances and contemporaries, including Gilbert Stuart, Samuel F. B. Morse, Ezra Ames, Thomas Doughty, and Thomas Cole. Dr. Edward P. Alexander, director of the association announces that the exhibition will continue through Labor Day.

Vanderlyn (1775-1852), who was born in Kingston, studied for a short time under Gilbert Stuart at New York in 1793 or 1794 but was forced to leave because of lack of funds. Aaron Burr heard of his predicament, and though he never had seen the young artist, enabled him to resume work under Stuart at Philadelphia and later sent him to Paris. The story is that while studying under Stuart, Vanderlyn received permission to copy his master's portrait of President

Washington. The copy was partially completed when the president visited the shop one day and, spying Vanderlyn's work, sat for him while he put on the finishing touches. Vanderlyn found that he had to cope with the prudishness of his times. His "Ariadne," a nude, had to be exhibited with separate hours for "Ladies" and "Gentlemen," and he later painted a replica in which Ariadne was chaste-ly covered.

ANNOUNCEMENT . . .

It is a well known fact that prevailing rates of interest on United States Government and other prime investments are now the lowest in the financial history of this country. In many cases the interest return is considerably less than 1 1/2%.

For this reason it has become increasingly difficult for banks to find high-grade securities which yield a satisfactory return, and a majority of commercial banks of the state, recognizing these facts and the necessity for adhering strictly to sound investments for the protection of their depositors, have adopted a plan of paying 1 1/2% or less on interest deposits.

Believing that the funds of our depositors should be invested only in securities of the highest standing our Board of Directors announce that in keeping with sound banking and our service to this community, we will beginning July 1, 1939, pay interest on Time Certificates and Interest Accounts at not to exceed 1 1/2% on all sums up to and including $7,500 and 1% on all sums from $7,500 up to and including $15,000 and no interest to be paid on balances exceeding $15,000.

We appreciate the confidence and esteem which our depositors have displayed toward us over the years that have passed. We shall endeavor to merit it at all times in the future.

Chauffeur's Error Set War Stage 25 Years Ago

In This Sunny Town...

Sarajevo is a semi-oriental city, full of mosques, with a population of 70,000. Hand-weaving is an important industry in the history-making community.

By The AP Feature Service

A chauffeur took the wrong street just 25 years ago yesterday—and his innocent mistake set the stage for the double murder which touched off the World War.

He was driving an open car in which the Austrian Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife were riding. It was in Sarajevo, capital of the Austrian-annexed province of Bosnia, and he was unfamiliar with the city.

He turned by mistake into a narrow thoroughfare which led to a section he had been instructed to avoid because of an attempt earlier in the day to assassinate the Archduke.

The military governor, riding with the Archduke and Duchess, shouted to the chauffeur to pull up. When the chauffeur started to back slowly out of the street, Gavril Princip, 19-year-old revolutionary fanatic, had an opportunity to step within three paces of the car and open fire with a revolver.

The Archduke, heir apparent to the Austrian throne, was fatally wounded in the neck. The Duchess, attempting to shield her husband, was mortally wounded in the body.

An hour or so before, a revolutionary comrade of Princip had thrown a grenade at the Archduke. It exploded in the street, wounding a military aide.

At the city hall, the mayor advised the Archduke to cut short his visit in Sarajevo. He agreed but wanted to visit the hospital to inquire after the wounded military aide. History's most fateful ride followed.

Bosnia, heavily Slavic, had been seething with discontent over Austrian rule. Army officers of neighboring Slavic Serbia were linked with the assassination plot, and Austria sent a drastic ultimatum to that country. Serbia appealed to her big Slavic protector, imperial Russia. Six weeks later the European volcano had blown its top.

Although Princip's shots precipitated the bloodiest war in history—more than 7,000,000 battle deaths alone—he himself escaped the death penalty, drew a 20-year sentence. The Austrian law did not permit capital punishment for persons under 20, but Princip died of tuberculosis in the spring of 1918.

Older fellow conspirators were executed.

...A Murder Started The War

By L. L. STEVENSON

During the recent visit of Crown Prince Frederik and Crown Princess Ingrid of Denmark, an incident occurred which I believe could happen nowhere except in America. Months ago, Al Smith, through the Danish Consul General, Georg Berch, extended an invitation to the prince and princess to see New York from the tower of the Empire State building. The invitation was accepted and on the day set, the prince and princess and the consul general and his wife arrived. It happened, however, that that day, the ex-governor was out on the Pacific coast attending the Al Smith day at the Golden Gate exposition. So Mrs. Julia Chandler, who is in charge of the observatories, acted as hostess and in the course of time, the party saw all of the tower, even making a stop on the 103rd floor terrace which is closed to ordinary visitors.

At the conclusion of the tour, Mrs. Chandler, stopped at the souvenir department to make gifts of alligator-skin compacts to the princess and the wife of the consul general. Right after the presentation, a pretty young girl came up and whispered to Mrs. Chandler. The girl is Miss Alice Carlson, who was born in Stockholm, Sweden, and is hostess of one of the tea rooms. As is well known, Sweden is the home of the wife of the crown prince, and it was Miss Carlson's timid wish to be allowed to speak to the princess. Naturally, the permission was granted at once. Then followed the unusual scene of a working girl from her own country welcoming Princess Ingrid to this working girl's adopted country.

The princess was charming, Mrs. Chandler reported, and talked with Miss Carlson longer than she did with any member of the party except her hostess. She asked Miss Carlson if she were an American citizen and Miss Carlson, who has been here nine years, replied that she wasn't yet but hoped to be. Miss Carlson also told the princess all about the observatories and how she never tires of the views, enjoying them even on cloudy days. To that the princess replied that she never had had a more thrilling experience and that she would not have known what New York was really like had she not seen it from the tower. And when they parted, a princess shook hands with a working girl.

Needless to state, the whole experience was quite a thrill for Miss Carlson. How much of a thrill the actual meeting really was may be gauged from the fact that on the night Lauritz Melchior, of the Metropolitan, gave an after-opera supper for the prince and princess, Miss Carlson went to the Gripsholm restaurant just so that she might catch one glimpse of Frederik and Ingrid.

A recent survey disclosed the fact that Columbia university students who attempted to finance their own education did so in such varied ways as acting as an audience at a dedication, counting the number and kind of weeds on Long Island, walking dogs and watching babies, as well as looking after pets while owners were out to movies. In addition, they entertained guests on a yacht, gave impersonations at parties and aided those whose contract bridge was of the kind that makes partners see red. Judging contests, speaking in high schools and teaching Sunday school also helped.

Tutoring furnished the greatest number of jobs, about 800 students receiving from $1 to $8 an hour for such work. Tutoring varied widely also. While most of it had to do with higher education there was one job of teaching an 84-year-old woman arithmetic. She wanted to keep track of her sons who run her business for her.

Byrd Diary Illustrative Of Virginia Colonial Life

For more than three years, from February, 1705, to September, 1712, Col. William Byrd jotted down in shorthand notes on the day's routine on his extensive plantation. When he was elected to a seat on the Virginia council of state, he recorded in his diary that he drank too much wine, played cards late, lost 20 shillings and forgot to say his prayers before going to bed, writes a correspondent to the Kansas City Star. Subsequently he began to worry about his diet, deciding that only one item of food should be eaten at a meal. Byrd wrote for his own diversion, unaware that some two centuries later his diary would fall into the hands of an expert on archaic shorthand.

Byrd's diary, hitherto unknown, was discovered by accident in the Huntington library, San Marino, Calif. Dr. Louis B. Wright, of the library's research staff, was examining documents in search of material for a book on the social and intellectual history of early Virginia. He came across some manuscripts by William Byrd, whose "History of the Dividing Line" is one of the bright items of our colonial literature. A small volume written in shorthand was scrutinized. A few passages in longhand, obviously in Byrd's handwriting, aroused interest and the book was turned over to Mrs. Marion Tinsley, who recognized the shorthand system as that of William Mason, a shorthand writer of note of the Seventeenth century. Mrs. Tinsley identified the shorthand notes as the work of Byrd and promptly set about transcribing the daily entries.

Munitions Boom Aid to Japanese Slum Dwellers

TOKYO.—Booming munition industries are bringing prosperity and luxuries to Japanese previously restricted to the poverty of the slums. A Tokyo department store recently received an order for two "extra-special" easy chairs. The delivery truck driver was given an address in one of the city's worst slum areas. However, the chairs were delivered to a munitions employee who had long dreamed of being able to sit in the same kind of chairs used by his boss. In Tokyo and Osaka bars and amusement places, munitions workers are flashing hundred yen bills and enjoying themselves in a manner unprecedented here.

Meanwhile, considerable jealousy has been aroused among white-collar employees who are still plugging along on subsistence salaries while prices are rising sharply.

Bennington Rally in 8th Ties the Colonials 5-5, Glens Falls Here Sunday

Going into the eighth inning at Bennington, Vt., last night Charlie Neff was in the command of a 5 to 3 lead. Then with a sudden-death surge, the Vermonters pushed over three runs to knot the count. With the score tied at the end of the eighth Umpire-in-chief Bill Bergen called the game because of darkness.

Opposing Neff on the slab for Bennington was Norm Hurley who gave way to Cliff Ruggles in the seventh. Hurley was tagged for all of the Colonial markers. Before Bennington reached Neff for a three-run rally in the eighth, the New Paltz righthander limited them to four hits.

Game Sunday
The Colonials will finally return home Sunday afternoon when the Glens Falls powerful combine makes another appearance at the Athletic Field. Game time will be at 2 o'clock sharp. This being the Davimen's first home game for more than three weeks a crowd is looked for.

Kingston jumped into the lead in the very first inning after Norm Hurley had retired the first two batters. But Husta broke up Hurley's enjoyable stay on the mound when he lashed out a long triple into deep center. In beating the relay into third base, Husta pulled off a neat hook slide into the bag which just tipped the throw. Tommy DuBois then singled into left sharply scoring Carl from third.

The Colonials slim margin was short-lived however. After Murphy erased Hurley on a fast infield play, Pleau worked Charlie Neff for a walk. Stuppbean pushed a solo into left sending Pleau over to third. Tommy Goodrich, who nipped Neff for three hits throughout the battle, then collected his first, a long single into right field. Both scored on the clout and when Halighan's toss came into third, Goodrich scampered down to second. Neff found himself without any more trouble and retired Meehan, McLaughlin and DeVito in order.

Two Runs
The Colonials anchored in runs in the fourth and fifth. Hurley was the victim of Tommy DuBois' second smash, a lengthy hoist far into dead left in the fourth for a homer. Tommy came into the platter standing up after his smash had traveled exactly 385 feet. Then in the fifth Charlie Lay poked a long three-bagger into left center scoring Frankie Neff from first who had singled.

When the Davimen picked up two more in the seventh the battle looked safe enough for Neff but the story changed quickly in the eighth. McLaughlin, the heavy-hitting Bennington first sacker, started the fireworks with another triple into left. Tony DeVito popped to Lay but Hickey smashed his second hit of the game over second base for the Bennington third run. Still, it didn't look so dangerous for Neff. On Pleau's bounder to the box, Neff tossed him out at first but on the play, Hickey legged it to second. Goodrich then came up and after his slammed his third hit of the game into right field scoring the third baseman from second with the Bennington fourth run. Meehan then walked. The equalizer rode across pay-off dust on Stuppbean's looper into left which just eluded Ashdown's out-stretched hands as he tried for a shoe string catch. Goodrich scored easily on the hit and it tied the game. When DeVito popped to Husta, Bill Bergen called the game.

MAJOR LEAGUE ROUNDUP

By The Associated Press

In these perilous times people often misunderstand what those Senators are trying to do down in Washington.

Their good-intentioned blundering has caused many a lifted eyebrow and no little disdain, but the fact remains they are the only club in the American League which has won more games from the World Champion New York Yankees than they have lost.

They kept in front of the bombers by winning the first game of a doubleheader yesterday, 2-1 in 12 innings, before losing the nightcap, 7-0 in six innings. This left the Nationals with four victories in seven games.

It also should have made Emil (Dutch) Leonard more highly respected in his own camp, where even the fact his record was far and away better than that of any other Washington hurler couldn't make Clark (Old Fox) Griffith concede he was the best man on the staff.

The veteran knuckleballer now has won seven and lost two and is the only pitcher in the American League who has beaten the Yankees twice this season. He held the champions to seven hits in the dozen innings he worked yesterday and the only run they scored off of him came in a sluggish first inning when Frank Crosetti was hit by a pitched ball, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on a single.

The Senators treated Red Ruffing, the Yankee ace, with no diplomacy. They scored on him in the first with a triple and a single and won the game utilizing only two singles sandwiched around a sacrifice.

The second game was abbreviated by darkness but the Yankees had settled it to everybody's satisfaction anyway. With rookie Atley Donald checking the Senators on three hits for his ninth straight triumph, his teammates bunched four runs in the second on two hits, two walks and two errors and Babe Dahlgren hit a homer with two on in the sixth.

The second place Boston Red Sox slipped further back as the Philadelphia Athletics buckled on their 17 hits in the proper places for an 8-6 victory. The parade was led by Bob Johnson, who hit a homer with one on and knocked in two other runs.

The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns divided a bargain bill with the cellar dwelling Browns taking the opener, 9-3, on the six-hit pitching of Bob Harris, who fanned seven, and the Sox coming back in the nightcap to win 7-5. Clint Brown's relief pitching was an important factor in the second game, which four homers were recorded.

Rain kept Cleveland and Detroit idle in the American League as well as Brooklyn and Philadelphia in the National. The night game of the latter pair was reset for tonight. The Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates had an open date.

This left an excellent opportunity for the St. Louis Cardinals to climb back into public favor by regaining second place—but they muffed their chance.

The New York Giants were beaten 9-2 by the Boston Bees, who unleashed a 16-hit attack concentrated into six runs in the second inning when Debs Garms and Buddy Hassett homered. However, the Cardinals were again edged out by the Chicago Cubs, 7-6.

The National League champions hopped on Lefty Bob Weiland and Paul Dean for three runs in the first and two more in the third, when Gabby Hartnett hit a home run with one on. The Cardinals tried belatedly to catch up, scoring four runs in the last two chapters as Johnny Mize and Enos Slaughter homered, but the Cubs staved them off.

The Manassa Mauler has been bothered with some sort of ailment for the past two or three years, close friends recalled last night, but he declined to seek medical assistance. He became ill Wednesday and had to miss the Louis-Galento fight. Yesterday afternoon, while playing cards at his home he became worse, and the doctor was called. He immediately ordered Dempsey taken to Polyclinic Hospital.

His wife, the former Hannah Williams of stage fame, took a room at the hospital and stayed near her husband throughout the night.

How To Shoot Skeet

By Col. A. J. Macnab, U.S.A., Retired
Author Of Army Manuals On Rifle And Pistol Training

Modern skeet layout at Bayside, Long Island.

Skeet-shooting is becoming universal. The 1939 champion may be a man with years of clay-target and bird-shooting experience. On the other hand, he may be—as in 1938—a 15-year-old youth.

One reason for this is the newness of the sport. Fifteen years ago few persons had heard of skeet. Today there are 3,000 skeet fields in the U. S. Yet the game is still too young to have developed pastmasters.

The rise in popularity of skeet is largely due to the fact that it is a new kind of target shooting. In trapshooting, the gunner stands in a fixed position and fires at a target flying away from him. He is allowed to have the gun at his shoulder before the clay bird is released. Experience counts heavily. Skeet is patterned on bird-hunt. The gunner must fire at the clay bird, both coming and going, from all angles. Furthermore, he must not raise the gun to his shoulder until the zooming target is sprung from the trap.

Thus in skeet we find a demand for muscular coordination—for quick response and the perfection of that elusive thing known as "form." Time is your enemy. One fifth of a second, or less, and your chance is lost. Eyes, hands, fingers, and even feet must develop the perfection of timing and rhythm to meet every challenge.

Boiceville Plays Wiltwycks Tonight

Lou Knapp's Boiceville Rangers make their third start of the week against the Wiltwycks in this evening's Athletic Field City League feature at 6:30. Splitting even in two contests against Grunenwalds and Jones Dairy, the Mountaineers will be out to advance a notch in the standings. Beaten 6-1 last time out, the Knappmen will be gunning to chalk up a win.

Wiltwycks, cellar dwellers to date with two losses, will shoot with both barrels to chalk up their first last half victory. Losing 9-2 to the Jonesmen and dropping a tough 3-2 duel to the Indies, the Icehouse Gang will attempt to trim their rivals tonight. Both lineups have been bolstered for the last half battling but the Wiltwycks have been getting more than their share of "bad breaks."

Dickey Blouhy, St. Remy flash, and Toddy Uhl loom as the probable starters.

40 Drivers Will Be Here for Regatta On Sunday, July 9

The entry list for the Kingston power boat regatta on the Rondout creek is growing daily and by the date of the event, Sunday, July 9, at least 40 drivers will be ready to compete, according to Joe Huber, public relations agent for the Kingston Power Boat Association.

This morning, Huber jubilantly expressed confidence that the regatta will be one of the biggest water sports programs ever held in this region, saying that boat owners are entering from all sections of the east.

"Last night we received an entry from Arthur Patnode of East Weymouth, Mass., who will travel here with his racing equipment in a large house trailer." According to Huber, there will be many out of town boat spectators in the creek with their yachts to witness the regatta, too. "We've heard from Dr. Henry of Germantown on arrangements for a fleet of 15 yachts to anchor along the regatta course," said Huber, "and many more commodores are expected in with entire fleets."

Dr. Henry, commodore of the Halfmoon Anchorage at Germantown, said the yachts from Catskill and Germantown will sail to Kingston as one fleet and will arrive in the creek about noon. "We've left no stone unturned," Huber told the press, "to make the program an entertaining one. From now on it's up to the weather man to do his part on the day of the regatta."

Contrary to general opinion, Death Valley has a large variety of wildlife, but it is mostly of the nocturnal or very elusive type and seldom seen by tourists.

Fashion, Diving Show at Williams

Sunday afternoon at Williams Lake in Rosendale, 15 models will show the latest in beach wear as selected by one of Ulster county's famous style centers, the Barbizon Shop of Kingston.

The annual event, always held the Sunday before July 4, at the start of the swimming season, is looked forward to by scores of young ladies contemplating getting new beach outfits.

The general vogue of beachwear for 1939 will feature bright colored printed slacks with fitted full length coats to match, according to the Barbizon Shop. Dressmaker bathing suits with finger tip coats to match, first popular last season, will be seen more than ever this summer.

Besides showing a full line of popular bathing suits, the models will present 1939 styles in slacks, lay suits and accessories.

Immediately after the Fashion show, scheduled for 3:30, the Williams Lake Athletic Club will present a professional diving show featuring Davey Russell of Philadelphia, former United States Olympian. Russell, whose specialty is tower diving, will perform from the 33-foot platform at Williams Lake.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon, the Williams Lake Bathing Beauties, girls' softball team, will play preliminary game to the Williams Lake Men and the Budweisers, softball aggregation from Highland.

IT COULDN'T HAPPEN—BUT JUST THE SAME IT DID

These magic eye camera shots chronicle the most startling moments of the Tony Galento-Joe Louis fight in Yankee Stadium, New York, when the roly-poly challenger for the world's heavyweight crown knocked Louis off his feet in the third round. In the next round, however—and it was a big however—Louis came back to smash Tony around and win on a technical KO.

Softball Notes

Van Valkenburgh's Presbyterians were handed a shut-out Thursday evening at Hasbrouck.

Park by the fast-stepping Redeemer team which pushed over several runs. "Chicken" Smith was located in the first part of the game for several hits while his teammates were held scoreless. Later in the game the Redeemer sluggers pushed over several more "lucky" hits through the third base section and put the game on ice. The first half champions were limited to three scattered hits and were unable to collect a hit when it would mean a run. The Presbyterians, leaders for the first half of the season, apparently will be hard pressed during the second half for the leading position if the Redeemers continue the brand of ball they displayed Thursday evening. The game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds to pay tribute to the Federation League this year.

While the Elmendorf Street Presbyterians were being handed a defeat the Ulster Park vs. Congregational game was defeated when Ulster Park failed to show up.

Scheduled this evening is St. James vs. Clinton avenue at Hasbrouck Park and Congregational vs. Wurts Street at Barmann Park.

Annual Tourney At Twaalfskill

The annual 36-hole handicap tournament is now being conducted at Twaalfskill golf links and play must be completed before July 4, Richard Miller, in charge of press relations, announced today.

Two rounds of 18 holes each make up the tournament play, he said, predicting that the event will be as successful as in past summers. Prizes will be awarded by the club.

Independents Score Win Over Grunenwalds 10-4 As Bush Gives but 5 Hits

Combing Jackie Strubel for nine safeties, the Independents administered a 10-4 trouncing to the embattled Grunenwalds in last night's City League feature. Backing up "Schoolboy" Bush's five-hit effort with sparkling support afield, the Indies captured win No. 2 of the last half race. Bush fanned seven Bakers and gave but two walks as he turned in his sixth win of the season and second in the last half.

Landing on Strubel for a big six-run scoring spurge in the second, the Indies racked up a trio in the fourth and one in the sixth. The Powerhouse really rocked the Grunenwalds, Charlie Bock's base-clearing triple putting the crusher on the Bakers' relief ace in the second. Eddie Murphy got the nod from Manager Weiss but arm-trouble caused his fadeout in the second with the sacks loaded.

Indies Sack Pill
Murphy plunked McLean and Bush and walked two before giving away. With one gone in the second, walks to Martin and Swarthout, Garvis' miscue on Thomas' boulder filled the sacks. Murphy plunked Bush's ankle, forcing in Martin, and stroled to the sidelines, grounded by arm-trouble. Strubel came in and was slapped for a single by McLean. With the sacks populated, Bock lashed a long triple to deep left center, tallying three.

Knights' sacrifice fly to Hanley accounted for the sixth run of the frame. Bock crossing over on the out. The Powerhouse teed off for three more, aided and abetted by a choice bit of Dodger ball by Grunenwalds. Bush opened with a single and completed the circuit on safe slaps by McLean and Bock.

Daffy Dodger Stunt
Knight's infield out moved both runners up a peg and set the stage for the season's weirdest display of goofy baseball. Van Etten smashed to Lamb who tossed to Dulin for the out. As McLean and Bock lit out madly for home, both Grunenwalds infielders nonchalantly discovered the beach. Only to stroller it was two out. Rider closed the frame by grounding to Strubel for the Bakers' first.

Dulin's pop double pushed Garvis, who walked, homeward in the first. Hanley's walk, steal and Smedes' slash off Thomas' glove knocked the Bakers' left fielder across in the second. Dulin's single scored Kelder from third in the sixth via a base-knock, steal and Rider's passed ball.

Vince Smedes, who had another big day with three stolen bases, pilfered home under Rider's lunge after singling, stealing second and moving to third on Rider's wild heave to centerfield. Smedes racked up two of the Bakers' first hits. Red McLean, who had three for his, jumped back into the batting lead with a triple and two single. Bock racked up a triple and single accounting for four runs-batted-in, pacing the Powerhouse.

Bleacher Bantry
Lamb went back into short right field for Van Etten's hard smash. Bing couldn't get a ball past the Shadow all night, drilling three grass cutters to Lambie. Lindhurst, lanky Grunenwalds mask and mitt artist, can certainly gobble those high twisting foul pops. Lindy hasn't dropped one yet.

Bill Thomas cavorted at the keyhole sack for the Indies. Thomas came up with some neat stabs in his seasonal debut. With Stumpf out, Bock is patrolling third in the Indies present set-up.

Big Gene Rider made his first appearance in a full moon and was welcomed in a back by the "bleacher" wolves. P.S.—The "wolves" howled when Gene gunned one into centerfield in the seventh, trying to nab speedy Smedes.

Dulin and Smedes had four of Grunenwalds' five bingles off Bush. Smedes is coming to life after a prolonged slump but Joe has been clipping the onion right smartly.

McLean and Minasian sparkled in the field. Red gobbled grounders natively while Minasian ran a country mile hauling down two wind-blown flies.

Boxes Here Friday, July 7th

A year ago, Tommy Zano, rugged Glasco beltter, left Kingston on a pugilistic career that has rocketed him right up there among the top-notch action fighters of the world's greatest boxing center, New York city. A week from today, Friday, July 7, he'll return to show his local followers what he has learned under the tutelage of Ray Arcel, famous trainer of fighters. The Professor of Sock, who coached Benny Leonard to the lightweight title. Zano is matched with Nat Kadin, Jewish idol from the East Side, recently fought a sensational draw with Johnny Horstman, the only fighter to have Jackie Kid Berg on the deck since his comeback.

Wiltwyck Golfers Defeated, Play at Stamford on Sunday

Although the Wiltwyck golfers who played at Williamstown, Mass., last week-end fell far behind the home contestants in the inter-club match, losing 40-12, the enthusiasm displayed pleased the tournament committee exceedingly.

There were 82 Wiltwyck players on the trip, 53 men and 29 ladies, and after they had finished their Williamstown match, were favored with an invitation to compete at the Berkshire Hills Country Club at Pittsfield, Mass., later in the season.

Next Sunday, Wiltwyck goes to Stamford for a return match, and will endeavor to make it two straight over the famous summer colony club. Starting time of play is 1 o'clock.

In reference to the Williamstown inter-club match, Tommy Danaher, pro at Wiltwyck, said, "Although Wiltwyck was defeated by a lop-sided score, this was a minor detail when contrasted with the enthusiasm of the ardent golfing fans of our club."

The turnout of 82 players was a source of much satisfaction to the tournament committee and myself, because we are working hard to stimulate interest and provide varied golf for the members."

Wiltwyck winners in the sweepstakes held in conjunction with the Williamstown match were Ray Garaghan, H. E. Thomas, William Mellert, Ray LeFevre, S. LeFevre, P. Ramsey, Roy Tremper, Russell Keiter, W. F. Oberist, Wilson Ingalls, Louis Bruhn, Stanley Winne, M. Davenport and Bob Cullum.

Results of second round in spring handicap at Wiltwyck: First division—J. W. Barley defeated L. Winter 3 and 2; Jock Gleason defeated Ed Tongue 3 and 2; L. E. Fursman defeated Al Tremper 6 and 4; Bob Cullum defeated Gene Freer, 5 and 4.

Second Division—Joe Koenig defeated Stanley Winne 1 up; H. A. Bruckert defeated L. L. Jennings 1 up; J. H. Barley defeated Fred Snyder 4 and 3.

Third division—P. Misasi defeated H. E. Thomas 3 and 2; F. Bruhn defeated L. Bruhn 3 and 2. The pairings for the semi-final

Leading Athletes Are Registering For Competition

Juniors and Seniors Will Try for Prizes—Championship Teams From East and West Coming

Preparations are already underway for one of the greatest track and field meets ever to be staged in this section of the state, it was disclosed this morning by the department of recreation. As announced in The Freeman early last March, when arrangements were first being undertaken by Sidney G. Lutzin, superintendent of recreation, the meet is to be known as the first annual Junior and Senior Hudson Valley Track and Field Championships and will be staged at the new Kingston Municipal Stadium on Saturday afternoon, July 22.

Highlighting the entries for the meet will be the greatest runners in the nation, led by the 10 men who will represent the United States at the international meet, to be held in England this summer. These men will be chosen at the National Amateur Athletic Union Championships, July 3, 4 and 5, in Lincoln, Neb.

Invitations for the meet have been extended to the country's leading track clubs, including the Grand Street Boys, the Milrose A. C., Curb Exchange A. C., New York A. C., and many others. These clubs will be classified in the senior division, and will compete against the United States teams.

The junior division will be made up of teams representing various cities and clubs throughout the eastern section of New York state, New Jersey, and Connecticut. Entries have already started to pour into the recreation department office from leading men in the Adirondack Division of the Amateur Athletic Union. Every champion of the Adirondack Division of the A. A. U. is expected to be on hand to compete in this meet.

A sanction for the meet was issued early this week by George F. Mahar of the Adirondack A. A. U., who together with the other officers of the A. A. U. will be on hand for the meet. Entries for the local meet are being secured at the National A. A. U. meet by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

In charge of officiating for the local meet will be Stuart Parks, formerly the outstanding intercollegiate track star of New England, former coach of the Pan-American Olympics, coach of track at Springfield College, and currently in charge of the Aquatic Club Pool and Day Camp here in Kingston.

Good Track
Ben Bell, coach of the department of recreation's own track squad, who has been making a fine showing with his team throughout this district, reported that the new track at the stadium will be one of the finest in the state, and will compare with any of the best in the country. Bell has been working his men out daily at the new track over a period of five weeks, in preparation for competition with the many other teams entered for the meet on July 22.

Trophies and medals for the prize winners are now being secured, and the best available will be presented to the winning athletes.

Track and field enthusiasts throughout this section are expected to converge on Kingston for the meet, and inquiries concerning the details are already coming into the local office daily. This will be the first track competition ever to be held on a real cinder track in Kingston, and without any doubt records will be hung up at this event which will probably stay for many years to come.

Small Blocks Worry Small Children

WRONG A lengthy session with tiny, exasperating blocks like these apt to end with the youngster approaching a state of nervous exhaustion. The blocks skid out of her fingers and don't lend themselves well to building plans.

RIGHT The modern blocks, big and sturdy, give the growing child something to get hold of. Instead of making a play session a useless, exasperating ordeal, these blocks help her develop muscles and give her training in coordination.

Past Is Re-Created In House of Dolls Many Figures Displayed By Florida Woman

ST. CLOUD, FLA.—The international doll house—"doll heaven" somebody called it once—boasts one of the largest and most varied collections of dolls in the country.

Mrs. Jack Baughman is mother to the dolls, which she has gathered from all over the world and exhibits in this little Florida cattle town. She has hundreds of the little figures, filling cases and lining the walls of her international doll house.

Some are exhibited in miniature displays, such as "Innocent Nell" of the old melodrama who is shown in an old-fashioned bedroom with a tiny maple dresser and cross-stitched sampler and rag rug. Beside her is the bedroom of a modern girl, with latest design furniture, including a cigarette tray and a miniature radio.

A few of the dolls are old and valuable. One is labeled an "Italian Lady of Quality." Her clothes, embroidered with gold, were copied from a painting by Pisanello. Fifteenth century artist. She wears a giraffe and necklace of rubies, emeralds and diamonds.

An odd pair is Amanda Button and her son, Ezra. Their entire clothing consists of 10 pounds of metal, ivory and bone buttons—all colors, sizes and shapes. The collection shows the progress of dollmaking since time began. The dolls represent many national and international personalities who were famous years ago. Among them are Queen Wilhelmina, Lillian Gish, Jenny Lind and Lillian Russell.

Plant Bureau Detectives Find Moles Assist Mice

WASHINGTON.—The department of agriculture has organized a staff of animal, insect and plant disease detectives along the lines of the famous justice department's agents.

The work of the "A-men" is under the direction of three bureaus: biological survey, for animals and birds; entomology, for insects; and plant quarantine, for plant diseases.

Grasshoppers are the "public enemy No. 1" among insect pests.

The most recent case solved by the bureau of biological survey was that of the ground mole, accused by gardeners with eating valuable bulbs.

The bureau absolved the mole of actually committing any crime, but found he was "an accessory before the fact."

"The myriad tunnels dug by the mole often become runways for the actual criminal, the small, short-tailed pine mole, or, in some instances, the field or meadow mice," the bureau said.

"These rodents are the real offenders. They are vegetarians and eat roots and bulbs of garden plants. The mice may be destroyed by poison bait, but such repellents placed in the runway merely cause the mole to dig a new tunnel around it."

Patriots' Long Locks Led To a Cut-on-Plait Order

CLEMONS, S. C.—Records unearthed by a student publication, the R. O. T. C. Messenger, reveal that haircuts were made compulsory in the Revolutionary army to keep American soldiers from looking "more like wild savages" than civilized men.

The haircut order was issued by Lieut. Col. Francis Marion, the "Swamp Fox," at Fort Moultrie, S. C., January 23, 1778. It provided:

"As long hair gathers much filth and takes a great deal of time and trouble to comb and keep clean and in good order, the lieutenant colonel recommends to every soldier to have his hair cut short, to reach no further down than the top of the shirt collar, and thinned upward to the crown of the head, the forehead short, with toupée, and short at the sides."

"Those who do not have their hair in this mode must have it plaited and tied up, as they will not be allowed to appear with their hair down their backs and over their foreheads, and down their chins at the sides, which makes them appear more like wild savages than soldiers."

The order also provided for appointment of regimental barbers.

There is really no native American pheasant, although the ruffed grouse is often referred to in many parts of the country as a "pheasant." This "native pheasant" is the same bird that is sometimes known as a "partridge" in most of the northern states.

Court Will Issue New Order for Sale Of Chichester Plant

Sale of the William O. Schwarzwelder Company wood-working plant at Chichester under direction of Special Master Richard V. Olney, Jr., is off for the present as all offers received under the order of sale of the court have either been withdrawn or found to be unsatisfactory. A new order for sale will be made by the court and new offers will be received. These offers will be made at public sale in the same manner as the proceedings which were brought to a close yesterday in New York when the offers were withdrawn or found not acceptable by the court.

Several adjournments have been held in the matter since the offers were received. These adjournments were taken in order to study the bids and to allow bidders to amplify their offers or explain them.

It is understood that the Auburn Wood Products Company bid was not acceptable by the court. Arthur B. Ewig of Cashin & Ewig who appeared as local attorney for the bidder did not attend the hearing yesterday. Floyd W. Powell, of counsel to Senator Charles W. Walton, appeared at the sale Thursday for the Kingston Trust Company one of the creditors.

Aid for Diabetic Announced Today

Palo Alto, Calif., June 30 (AP)—A potential way of smoothing the path of treatment for the diabetic was announced today to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Three Stanford University pharmacologists, Dr. John Hanzlik, Dr. W. C. Cutting and Dr. G. B. Robson, reported the formulation of a principle which might lead to the administration of insulin through the mouth instead of by injection in the veins.

They reported experimental success by mixing insulin with quinine to insure its passing through the digestive system to the blood stream without being destroyed en route by gastric juices.

However, they emphasized that quinine was not a desirable carrier agent in all cases because of the potentially adverse effects it might have on some persons, such as humming in the ears, loss of appetite or even effects on the heart.

Treatment through the mouth is considered desirable because it would do away with the necessity of repeatedly puncturing the skin with a hypodermic needle to give regular treatments over an extended period.

The pharmacologists said they would continue their search for a suitable carrier drug.

Battle of Lexington Was Only Second Page News

PHILADELPHIA.—Start of the American Revolutionary war was only page two news in the Pennsylvania Journal, old files of the newspaper disclose.

"The King's troops are actually engaged in butchering and destroying our brethren in the most inhumane manner," the Journal said in a second-page item regarding the Battle of Lexington.

A letter under the item described how well drilled British troops of "about 1,000 or 1,200 men landed at Phipp's Farm at Cambridge and marched to Lexington" in search of John Hancock and Samuel Adams.

The redcoats killed eight of "our Colony Militia" and wounded nine, according to the letter, which reached Philadelphia five days later.
